Waterproofing specialists put a CAP on leaks

We can't live without water but water leaks are something we can live without. Keeping water leaks at bay is what CAP Waterproofing and Drains is all about, offering unique waterproofing systems with some of the best products on the market.

While providing service across the country in the commercial industry, residential services have been provided in the local area by its own team of professionals since the office moved to Burlington in January 2017.

"We have been welcomed to the community since we moved here, and we look forward to growing and servicing our community," said Cyril Phillips, owner of CAP Waterproofing and Drains.

Residential waterproofing services include interior foundation crack repair, exterior waterproofing, outdoor drainage systems, window well installation and repair as well as any concrete restoration projects.

The dedicated professionals at CAP Waterproofing ensure that every project is completed on time and up to the client's standards. They take pride in coming up with solutions for all waterproofing issues, no matter how big or how small and utilize the newest and most innovative products to deliver quality results. The waterproofing specialists use an exclusive seven-layer waterproofing system for residential projects that includes a lifetime transferable warranty.

"We have positioned ourselves as leaders in the waterproofing industry by providing our clients with our customizable waterproofing solutions tailored to individual's needs, while supporting budgetary requirements. The people who make up the team at CAP Waterproofing embody our values of integrity, performance and passion," Phillips explained.

Dive into the season with the help of Total Tech Pools

The recently expanded 6,000 square-foot showroom at Total Tech Pools.

There's so much more to see at the recently expanded Total Tech Pools & Leisure Oakville showroom.

"The showroom has been expanded to almost three times the original size," said Dave Warren, president of Total Tech Pools & Leisure. "We now have a new, fully functional and automated pool, which was built to demonstrate different pumps, lighting, and automation." The 6,000 square-foot area also features water testing labs as well as interactive technology.

"The store as a whole now offers so much more and in a spacious and welcoming atmosphere," Warren said of the Speers Road location.

More energy efficient and environmentally friendly options are available at the store now too, as well as robotic cleaners and complete automation.

"Variable speed pumps can save more than $600 per season on hydro and can be eligible for a $400 hydro rebate," said Warren. "Cartridge filters waste far less water than sand filters and there are also products available to reduce evaporation."

"Additionally, we have outdoor living products such as patio furniture, fire tables and outdoor toys," said Warren. Patio furniture offerings include dining and conversational sets as well as loungers, umbrellas and bistro sets. They are high quality, affordable and they are in stock for quick delivery.

Adding more fun to the 2018 season, Total Tech Pools has a brand new line-up of outdoor toys including ziplines, slacklines, and Ninjalines that comprises a range of versatile hanging obstacle course components that are easy to install and take down and can accommodate various skill levels. Complete with displays of pool toys, fun inflatables and pool games as well as outdoor living essentials, the showroom provides a window to the possibilities for outdoor spaces.

Providing excellent customer service is extremely important to Warren, "I am very involved in the industry worldwide and have worked to develop standards for the industry as well as on education. I pass this on to my staff by ensuring they are highly educated and can provide the highest levels of knowledge and service to our clients."

Along with being the president of Total Tech Pools, Warren is the past president of the Pool and Hot Tub Council of Canada and is currently on the Executive Board. In the United States, he is on the Retail Council for the Association of Pool and Spa Professionals, and is a certified instructor for many courses.

Drop by the showroom at 1380 Speers Rd. in Oakville. For more information, call 905-825-1389; email info@totaltechpools.com, or visit www.totaltechpools.com.
